

Terry Medeiros is a professional Jazz and Blues musician who performs at private social events, concerts, recording sessions nightclubs and fine restaurants throughout the Southern California area. Terry's instrument is the guitar. He has recorded and performed with Jack Tempchin, Bobby McFerrin, Freddy Fender and Mary Wells among others. Terry's favorite part of the musician's life is the opportunity to perform for audiences in various venues.

Terry has played guitar on several recordings such as Lee Oskar's "Before The Rain" and Steve Copeland and Raging Sun "Highway Bound." He has played music with John Hammond Jr., Tower Of Power, The Hoodoo Rhythm Devils and Tommy Sands among others. His recordings have been heard in airplay on satellite radio around the world.

Reviewers have commented favorably on Terry's technical ability, musical interpretation and sense of rhythm. For instance, Robert Kinsler of the Orange County Register wrote that Terry's guitar playing is able to "fuse artistic expression and virtuoso musicianship with every note played." Leslie Connors from Jazztimes.com noted that Terry's "mastery of the guitar displays an icy self-confidence that doesn't need showing off."

Terry is also a composer, arranger and producer of several recordings. "The Rhythm Meth'od," "Forevermore," "After Math" and "At The Bar Again" can be found and are distributed at CDBABY.com. Terry is a principle member, producer and songwriter of "Steve Copeland and Raging Sun." He performs regularly in an acoustic blues duo with the south bay shredder Pat "the Colonel" Hennessy and with the Chris Banta jazz trio throughout the greater Los Angeles area. In addition to his busy composing, arranging, producing and performance schedule, Terry is in high demand as an educator. He has taught privately for over forty years.

Influential mentors include Al Vescovo, Mike Saluzzi and Jeff Albrizzi. Al and Mike taught Terry the importance of musicianship and the art of listening to the music that you hear and play. Jeff introduced Terry to Zazen meditation. Terry lives in southern California with his beautiful wife of many years. When Terry is not making music he loves to take long walks and cook tasty meals.
